Meal sharing a 'win-win-win'

Campaigning. Paula Havixbeck's proposed plan would see restaurants donate meals to food banks, soup kitchens

A city councillor running for mayor is pledging to adopt a restaurant meal-share program as a way to reduce hunger in Winnipeg.

Coun. Paula Havixbeck (Charleswood-Tuxedo) made her announcement in front of Winnipeg Harvest, which currently runs a similar program.

"Should I be elected, when I'm elected, I would implement the meal-share program for the city of Winnipeg," said Havixbeck, adding a challenge made by Zach Peters via Twitter almost a month ago prompted her pledge.

"This is a win-win-win, actually — it's a win for restaurants, it's a win for citizens because they are getting involved and it's a win for the agencies."

Havixbeck said the way it works is this: Restaurants dedicate part of the menu to the program, whereby if a patron orders from it, the restaurant owner donates the same meal to a charity.

David Northcott, executive director of Winnipeg Harvest, said while his organization is non-partisan, he does appreciate Havixbeck speaking about poverty reduction on the campaign trail.

Northcott also said Harvest has had a meal-share program in place for the past five years that they're hoping to expand.

"That food, one, we don't want it thrown out; secondly, we really need it here," said Northcott, adding that there are 15 soup kitchens in the city and many other meal and snack programs that they provide support to.

"It's a really smart thing to do.... This (Havixbeck's pledge) definitely expands it; it really adds a kick to it."

Paula Havixbeck said the mayors of Calgary and Vancouver, Naheed Nenshi and Gregor Robertson respectively, have successfully introduced meal-share programs in their cities.

Tax dollars paying for partisan signs: Pallister

Brian Pallister METRO FILE

Manitoba's Opposition leader is accusing the NDP government of using taxpayer-funded road construction signs for partisan electioneering.

The signs, which bear the slogan "Steady growth, good jobs," have popped up beside many construction sites. Brian Pallister said they usually contain no information about each road project and are essentially campaign signs for the NDP government.

"If the NDP wants to do pre-election advertising, that is well within their rights," Pallister said Thursday. "But they should use their own money and not use the money they take from Manitobans."

Justice Minister Andrew Swan said the signs are similar to the federal government's "Economic Action Plan" billboards. He also said the signs let Manitobans know where their money is going.

"We know people will see that branding, will see that sign. They'll know where their tax dollar is being invested."

The infrastructure messaging has been a key point for the government since it raised the provincial sales tax last year and saw its popularity plummet in opinion polls.

It later promised to use all the money raised by the tax hike for core infrastructure work such as roads, bridges and flood-prevention projects.

In Ontario, the auditor general's office reviews a wide range of government advertising for possible partisan messaging. The reviews cover government billboards for many construction projects but not highway work.

Winnipeggers help police in Tina Fontaine investigation

Face-to-face. Police say door-to-door visits leading to important conversations

Winnipeg police say they've been overwhelmed by support and tips from the public while they investigate the death of Tina Fontaine.

The 15-year-old's body was found wrapped in a bag in the Red River near the Alexander Docks Sunday afternoon. She had been missing since Aug. 9 and had last been seen in the Portage Place area of downtown Winnipeg.

On Wednesday detectives went door-to-door to homes in the area of Ellice Avenue and Langside and Furby Streets — an area Fontaine was known to frequent — looking for information and speaking to residents about what happened.

"Whether they knew or had seen Tina in that area, those conversations with officers face-to-face certainly go a long way," said police spokesman Const. Jason Michalyshen Thursday.

"If we're able to draw information from them that are going to assist in our investigation, clearly that's our goal, but I think there's some really good conversations where we're able to provide some reassurance to the public that we're out there.

"We're hopeful and optimistic that we'll have some better news to provide in the near future."

Michalyshen said investigators have been receiving as many as 10 calls a day with tips from the public, but wouldn't say whether a specific tip led officers to the area Wednesday.

Woman groped by teenager on bike

Police are investigating after a 49-year-old woman was groped by a cyclist in the Point Road neighbourhood Wednesday night.

The woman was walking near Netley Street and North Drive when a young man rode up on a bike behind her and grabbed her in the lower body.

The man fled when the woman screamed. He is described as being 16 to 18, with a medium build and short reddish/brown hair. He wore red T-shirt and shorts and was riding a mountain bike. METRO

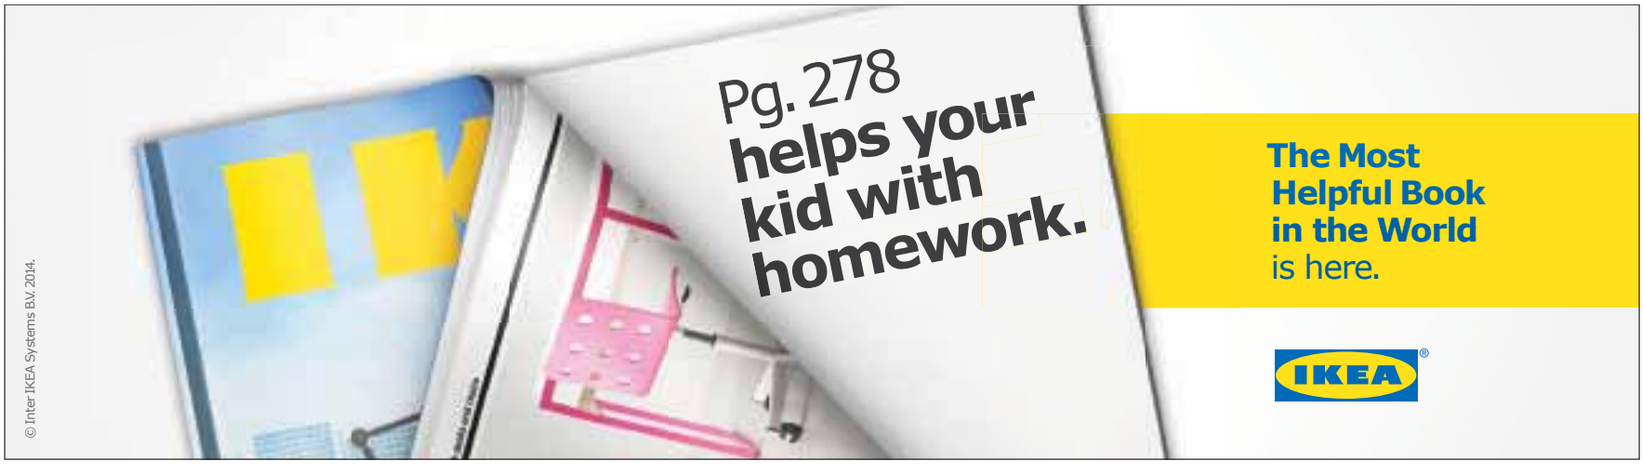
Man in stable condition after stabbing

Police are looking for tips about what led to a stabbing incident on the patio of a downtown bar early Thursday.

The 19-year-old victim was on the patio at Rudy's Eat & Drink on Graham Avenue when a group of three or four men attacked him around 1 a.m.

The man was physically assaulted and stabbed in the lower body. He was taken to hospital, where he is now listed in stable condition. METRO



Ellice Café and Theatre sold

Ellice Avenue. Venue sold to Adam Beach Film Institute, Bandwidth Digital Releasing and Simply Cooked

The Ellice Café and Theatre is getting a touch of Tinseltown.

New Life Ministries announced on Thursday that the café at Ellice Avenue and Sherbrook Street, which closed in 2012, has been sold to the Adam Beach Film Institute, Bandwidth Digital Releasing, and Simply Cooked.

Adam Beach, a Winnipeg actor who has had roles in major Hollywood films, said his institute is part of a "lifelong dream to bring movies to my people."

The theatre portion of the Ellice Café building will be upgraded to house a post-production facility and exhibit first-run movies, and it will continue to be a venue for local artists and theatre productions.

"I am so pumped to come back to Winnipeg and start inspiring the next generation of filmmakers and actors," said Beach, who stars in the CBC's Arctic Air, in a news release.

The Bandwith Theatre is expected to open on Aug. 29 with films The Rover, The Immigrant, The Grand Seduction and Earth to Echo. As for the restaurant portion, it will be owned and operated by Christa Bruneau-Guenther and named the Eat Well Café.

The Ellice Café and Theatre was the brainchild of the late Rev. Harry Lehotsky as a way to revitalize the surrounding West End community.

Portage la Prairie. RCMP asks for help in locating home invasion suspect

Manitoba RCMP are searching for a suspect involved in a violent break-in that took place on Aug. 12 in a Portage la Prairie home.

Police said that around 10:30 p.m. that night, the homeowner answered the door after hearing a knock.

That's when two men allegedly forced their way inside, demanding money. A fight broke out and the suspects left with items from the home.

The victim, a 34-year-old man, was treated for non-life threatening injuries at the hospital and released.

Police said the two suspects were identified as Leslie James Sullivan, 29, of Portage la Prairie, and Shane Rene Richard, 28, of Long Plain First Nation.

Both men are facing charges of breaking and entering, robbery and mischief.

Sullivan was located and arrested on Monday in Winnipeg by the Manitoba Integrated Warrant Apprehension Unit.

Police are currently on the hunt for Richard, who was also charged with failure to comply with a probation order.

Anyone with information on his whereabouts are asked to contact Portage la Prairie RCMP at 204-857-4445 or Manitoba Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477 (TIPS) or www.manitobacrimestoppers.com.

Mounties arrest man after father, son found dead

The RCMP said Thursday they arrested a man after a father and his adult son were found dead in Prince Edward Island.

The Mounties said the two men were found dead Wednesday around 9:15 p.m. inside a residence on St. Mary's Road south of Montague in Kings County.

Officers responded to the scene after a member of the public called 911.

The RCMP said a man in his 40s was arrested without incident Thursday at about 7:40 a.m. in Montague.

He is expected to appear in court Friday and police say they do not suspect anyone else was involved in the deaths.

The Mounties did not identify the victims nor say how they died, adding that autopsies will be conducted to determine the exact cause of death.

Police have also not confirmed reports that a shooting had taken place.

Roadblocks that were put in place on St. Mary's Road as police investigated were later removed. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto

Police board seeks to appeal G20 class-action ruling

Two class-action lawsuits by hundreds of people detained during the G20 summit in Toronto four years ago are headed for another round of legal wrangling.

Earlier this month, the Divisional Court allowed the proceedings to move ahead, overturning a previous court ruling that declined to certify it as a class action.

The Divisional Court decided the case should be two separate, but related, class-action lawsuits — one for hundreds of people who were abruptly detained by police at five locations across Toronto, and another to deal with the treatment of those who were held at a detention centre set up during the summit.

The court said it is important the allegations of police mistreatment be heard in court.

The Toronto Police Services Board now wants to appeal that decision, filing a notice of motion with Ontario's Appeal Court, seeking leave to appeal. THE CANADIAN PRESS

University students allowed to bring pets into dorms

It's move-in day at the University of Northern Colorado, and this year some students are being allowed to bring their cats or dogs to live with them in dorms.

Pets under 40 pounds are being allowed on two of the 17 floors of Lawrenson residence hall, home to about 400 students.

The pilot program beginning Thursday will include about 24 pets.

Dogs and cats that aren't able to live side-by-side will be separated as needed.

While some colleges allow small-caged pets, a slowly growing number of schools are letting undergraduate students bring other pets to live with them.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology allows cats in designated "cat-friendly" areas. Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, Fla., allows cats and dogs — as well as non-venomous snakes under six feet long. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For Trudeau, Tories' beat is 'elite, elite'

War of word. Stephen Harper has repeatedly called Justin Trudeau 'elite' — a word that's becoming a popular Conservative put-down for the Liberal leader

In the communications arsenal the Conservatives are building against Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau, the word "elite" is proving to be one of the most popular put-downs.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper has used the word "elite" repeatedly when referring to Trudeau and those around him, part of the narrative the party is building in advance of the 2015 election.

"You can listen to the liberal elites, and the liberal media pundits and liberal interest groups and you can hear the plan: Tell Canadians there's something new and exciting," Harper said Wednesday in Langley, B.C., referring to Trudeau.

Trudeau's top adviser, Gerry Butts, fired back on Twitter: "My dad mined coal for 40 years in Cape Breton. He'd be proud the prime minister thinks his son's an 'elite.'" THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pot calling the kettle elite?

David Coletto, CEO of polling and research firm Abacus Data, said the longer Harper is in power, the harder it becomes to use such messages against an opponent.

- Yet, he says, framing Trudeau as "elite" might still resonate with Harper's core constituency, particularly in the West.

Privacy czar. Websites must make privacy policy transparent to customers

All businesses — especially those operating online — should be upfront with customers about their data-collection practices as transactions move into the digital realm, Canada's privacy czar says.

Websites must explain clearly what personal information is collected, how it is used, whether it is disclosed to third parties and for what purpose, federal privacy commissioner Daniel Therrien says in his annual report on the private sector, made public Thursday.

"Without such transparency, customers cannot provide the meaningful consent necessary for a business to collect their personal information," Therrien says.

"Transparency helps make businesses accountable and breeds trust on the part of consumers. More and more, it will become integral to the smooth functioning of the online market." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Harper. Missing, murdered aboriginal women aren't a 'sociological phenomenon'

Prime Minister Stephen Harper says police investigations, not a national inquiry, are the best way to deal with crimes involving missing and murdered aboriginal women.

The death of a 15-year-old aboriginal girl found dumped in Winnipeg's Red River has prompted renewed calls for a national inquiry.

But Harper says most such cases are addressed — and solved — by the police. He says it's important to keep in mind that these are crimes.

"We should not view this as sociological phenomenon," the prime minister told a news conference Thursday. "We should view it as crime. It is crime against innocent people, and it needs to be addressed as such."

The Conservative government has rejected all calls for a national inquiry into murdered and missing aboriginal women, saying it prefers to address the issue in other ways. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gaza. Israeli missile attacks leaves three senior leaders dead

An Israeli airstrike in Gaza killed three senior Hamas military commanders Thursday, delivering a likely blow to the organization's morale.

The strike marked further escalation in the conflict — which has claimed the lives of over 2,000 Palestinians and 67 Israelis — following the breakdown of Egyptian-led ceasefire talks earlier this week.

The pre-dawn strike levelled a four-storey house in a densely populated Rafah neighbourhood, killing six, including the three Hamas commanders.

Israel said the trio played a key role in Hamas' military capabilities.

Kidnapping of Israelis. Senior leader admits Hamas involvement

A senior Hamas leader has claimed the Islamic militant group kidnapped and killed three Israeli teens in the West Bank in June, the first time Hamas has said they were behind the attack.

While in Turkey on Wednesday, exiled West Bank leader Saleh Arouri told a conference that Hamas' military wing — al-Qassam Brigades — carried out the attack, an act that helped spark the current war in the Gaza Strip. He hoped the incident would spark a new Palestinian uprising.

Israel had previously accused Hamas of orchestrating the kidnappings, additionally believing Arouri to be the mastermind behind a plot to stage a West Bank uprising.

War disrupts education

U.S. colleges pull students from overseas programs

Some U.S. colleges are pulling students from overseas study programs in Israel as the Gaza war rages, though the relative calm beyond the immediate battle areas is raising questions in some quarters about why they had to leave.

Colleges say security was the top concern, citing advisories about hazardous travel from the U.S. State Department and from insurance companies.

"On the one hand, we want to introduce students to the dimensions of conflict," said Yehuda Lukacs, director of the Center for Global Education at George Mason University in Virginia. "But this was too much because their safety and security were challenged."

State Department

U.S. concerned after Israel's arrest of American citizen

The U.S. government has raised concerns about Israel's arrest of a Palestinian teenager with American citizenship whose cousin was burned to death by Israeli extremists earlier this summer.

The State Department says it was never notified by Israel after 19-year-old Mohammed Abu Khdeir was arrested at his home in east Jerusalem on July 28. It also says Israel appears to be targeting members of the Abu Khdeir family for arrest.

U.S. officials are concerned that Abu Khdeir, who was born in Baltimore and remains in custody, and his family are being targeted for arrest.

Israel's police spokesman declined to comment.

Federal Judge Robert L. Hinkle has declared that Florida's same-sex marriage ban was unconstituional. LEON NEAL/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

Judge says no to Florida's gay marriage ban

Ban had been added in 2008 vote. A U.S. federal judge rules Florida's ban to be unconstitutional

A federal judge on Thursday declared Florida's ban on same-sex marriage unconstitutional, joining state judges in four counties who have sided with gay couples.

U.S. District Judge Robert L. Hinkle ruled that the ban added to Florida's constitution by voters in 2008 violates the 14th Amendment's guarantees of equal protection and due process. Hinkle issued a stay delaying the effect of his order, meaning no marriage licenses will be immediately issued for gay couples.

Hinkle, an appointee of President Bill Clinton, compared bans on gay marriage to the long-abandoned prohibitions on interracial marriage and predicted both would be viewed by history the same way.

"When observers look back 50 years from now, the arguments supporting Florida's ban on same-sex marriage, though just as sincerely held, will again seem an obvious pretext for discrimination," Hinkle wrote. "To paraphrase a civil rights leader from the age when interracial marriage was struck down, the arc of history is long, but it bends toward justice."

Starbucks. Customers buy next patrons' drinks in day-long kindness chain

A woman started an act-of-kindness chain that lasted for hours at a Starbucks drive-thru in Florida.

The woman ordered an iced coffee around 7 a.m. Wednesday in St. Petersburg and asked to pay for the caramel macchiato for the stranger in the car behind her. He returned the favour. The chain kept going all day.

The Tampa Bay Times reports the chain finally ended around 6 p.m. when customer number 379 pulled up and ordered a regular coffee. Barista Vu Nguyen leaned out the window and explained the chain that started earlier in the day, asking if she'd like to participate. She declined, saying she wanted to pay for only her coffee.

Nguyen says he doesn't believe she understood the concept of paying it forward.

Atlanta. Doctors don't know whether experimental drug helped or if patients improved on their own

Two American aid workers who were infected with the deadly Ebola virus in Africa have been discharged from an Atlanta hospital, where the scene Thursday was festive and celebratory — a stark contrast to the sterile atmosphere that marked their arrival nearly three weeks ago.

Dr. Kent Brantly, 33, and Nancy Writebol, 59, were infected while working at a missionary clinic in Liberia. They were given the experimental drug Zmapp and flown back to the United States for treatment. Brantly was released Thursday, and Writebol quietly walked out of the hospital's isolation unit two days earlier.

Doctors and medical experts say it's not known whether the drug helped or whether Brantly and Writebol improved on their own, as has happened to others who have survived the disease. The treatment is so novel that it hasn't been tested in people.

Ribner and the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention stressed that the Americans' release did not pose a public health risk. Generally patients are not contagious once they've recovered, Ribner said.

Death toll on the rise

The Ebola outbreak has killed more than 1,300 people across West Africa. The death toll is rising most quickly in Liberia, according to the World Health Organization. At least 2,473 people have been sickened in the region.

Liberia. Hundreds line up for rice in slum sealed off to stop spread of Ebola

Government officials handed out bags of rice and sachets of drinking water Thursday to residents of an impoverished slum in Liberia's capital where tens of thousands of people have been barricaded in an effort to stop the spread of Ebola.

International aid workers warned that more help was needed as the country battles not only the virulent disease but also hunger as travel restrictions have blocked food from getting to parts of the capital.

In West Point, hundreds of residents lined up to receive government provisions a day after authorities put up barbed-wire barricades and enforced a blockade of the area that kept market traders from entering or leaving.

Prices were skyrocketing inside the community on a peninsula, with the price of water quadrupling in a matter of days in the slums where there is no clean running water amid steamy temperatures.

"At the moment, West Point is stuck at a standstill and is in an anarchy situation," said Moses Browne, who works for aid group Plan International in Liberia.

On Wednesday, residents of West Point clashed with police and soldiers hours after the neighbourhood was sealed off, furious that they were being blamed and cut off from markets and jobs. The situation calmed down on Thursday, though fears remain about how much food and water will be brought into the peninsula.

The World Food Program said it would also begin distributing food in the area in the coming days.

Calgary imam calls out ISIS as radical terrorists

Drawing awareness to militants. Imam Syed Soharwardy denounces 'un-Islamic' group whose members 'must be punished'

A prominent Canadian imam intends to draw attention to what he calls the "un-Islamic" beliefs and actions of ISIS in light of the murder of a U.S. journalist. Imam Syed Soharwardy of Calgary plans a 48-hour hunger strike beginning Friday to create awareness about the terrorist group.

Soharwardy, founder of Muslims Against Terrorism and the Islamic Supreme Council of Canada, is condemning the beheading of journalist James Foley.

"I want to let everyone know that ISIS is not a part of Muslim community," said Soharwardy.

The imam says Foley's death and that of thousands of civilians in Syria and Iraq are "crimes against humanity." He predicts the violent activities of ISIS won't remain limited to the Middle East.

"They are actively working and recruiting Muslim youth in Canada," he said.

Last week, Foreign Affairs said it had reports of a Canadian being killed in Iraq. But officials couldn't confirm it was Farah Mohamed Shirdon, a former Calgary man the CBC identified as having gone to fight for Islamic State of Iraq and Syria. Soharwardy said he is worried that could inspire other youth to follow Shirdon's example.

James Foley's death

Agencies scramble to identify killer

The Islamic militant in a video showing the death of American journalist James Foley took great care to hide his identity, dressing head-to-toe in black, with a mask leaving only his eyes visible.

But police and intelligence services in Britain and the U.S. have many clues as they scramble to identify him, from image analysis and voice-recognition software to social media postings and testimony from former captives.

The Guardian newspaper quoted a former captive held by the Islamic State group in Raqqa, Syria, as saying he appeared to be one of several British militants — nicknamed "The Beatles" by hostages — charged with guarding prisoners.

Peter Neumann, director of the International Centre for the Study of Radicalization at King's College London, said most of the hundreds of Western militants in Syria have Facebook or Twitter accounts, on which they post pictures of themselves and give away other clues to their origins, such as a favourite soccer team.

Language experts say the masked killer sounds like a man in his 20s who was raised or educated in Britain. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio diocese bars schools from social media stunt

A Roman Catholic diocese in Ohio is discouraging its 113 schools from participating in the Ice Bucket Challenge to benefit the ALS Association, saying the group's funding of embryonic stem cell research is "in direct conflict with Catholic teaching."

The diocese said schools could participate, but money raised should be directed to groups such as the John Paul II Medical Research Institute in Iowa City, which conducts "pro-life driven" research, according to its website.

Catholic Church's stance

The Catholic Church relates the use of embryonic stem cells in research to abortion and says it violates the sanctity of human life. The use of adult stem cells in research is not forbidden by Catholic teaching.

A spokeswoman for the ALS Association said donors can ask that their money not pay for embryonic stem cell research. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Instead of pouring cold water over his head, U.S. President Barack Obama has poured it on the idea of becoming the highest-profile participant of the Ice Bucket Challenge.

Memo reaches U.S. Ambassador to Israel too late to stop him from participating

The charity stunt has lured athletes, celebrities, politicians and rock stars and gone viral on the Internet, but don't look for U.S. diplomats to get in on the fun.

Lawyers at the State Department have banned American ambassadors and other high-profile foreign service officers from participating in the Ice Bucket Challenge to raise money and awareness for Lou Gehrig's disease.

In a cable to all U.S. diplomatic missions, the lawyers say it runs afoul of federal ethics rules barring officials from using public office for private gain "no matter how worthy the cause."

However, the diplomatic cable complimented the ALS Association on the success of its Ice Bucket Challenge, which has raised more than $40 million US and attracted a plethora of notable participants, including former U.S. president George W. Bush and television hosts Martha Stewart and Matt Lauer.

U.S. Ambassador to Israel Daniel Shapiro, who had already participated, had challenged U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Samantha Power to douse herself with ice water for the cause. But by then, Power got the memo.

Pick-and-pay on the way for TV delivery?

CRTC. More consumer choice, price cap for basic service among broad proposals offered up by regulator

Canada's broadcast regulator has issued broad new proposals that could dramatically alter how Canadians receive and pay for their television.

The proposals issued Thursday by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission include requiring cable and satellite providers to offer a basic service made up primarily of local Canadian channels.

The CRTC is also proposing a so-called pick-and-pay structure that would allow Canadians to choose individual channels, on top of a basic service.

And it suggests the price of that basic service could be capped at between $20 and $30 per month.

Industry Minister James Moore first indicated last October that he'd like to see more choice for Canadian consumers.

The government then laid out its plans to overhaul the country's TV distribution system in its speech from the throne, which included a proposed "pick-and-pay" service structure.

But at least one consumer group says the CRTC hasn't gone far enough and should allow Canadians a "pure choice."

"What store do you walk into, or anywhere else, where you're told you've got to buy certain things before you can buy what you want?" said Bruce Cran, president of the Consumers' Association of Canada.

Consumers should be allowed to buy TV channels one at a time, without having to pay for a basic service, no matter how pared down, he said.

The CRTC stresses that it has not yet decided which options it will enforce, and is giving the public until Sept. 19 to offer comments on the proposals online.

A public hearing will also be held in Gatineau, Que., on Sept. 8. THE CANADIAN PRESS

A not-so-sweet end for Twinkies' birthplace

A worker checks Hostess Twinkies as they move through production in their trays prior to cream injection at the Interstate Bakeries Corporation facility in April 2005 in Schiller Park, Ill., a suburb northwest of Chicago. Hostess Brands said on Wednesday it plans to close the suburban Chicago bakery where the Twinkie was invented in 1930, cutting 400 jobs and shuttering a piece of American baking history. According to the Chicago Sun-Times, Hostess Brands CEO Bill Toler said the company is closing the plant in October as it tries to improve efficiency. The bakery had just reopened a little over a year ago as Twinkies returned to store shelves after Hostess filed for bankruptcy in 2012. TIM BOYLE/GETTY IMAGES

Airline wars. United bets on top flyers' appetite for hot meals

To win the hearts of frequent business travellers, United Airlines is going through their stomachs.

The carrier has been looking for ways to woo back some of its top flyers who defected to other carriers following a rocky merger with Continental Airlines. So, it's upgrading first-class food options and replacing snacks with full meals on some of its shortest flights.

The changes, announced Thursday, mean that instead of potato chips, chocolate chip cookies and bananas, passengers on flights of at least 800 miles will get meals such as chicken and mozzarella on a tomato focaccia roll, or turkey and Swiss cheese on a cranberry baguette. Currently, meals are only served on flights of 900 miles or more — trips that usually last close to two hours.

Passengers on 13 extra routes, such as Houston-to-Des Moines, Iowa, will be getting full meal service starting in February.

The move comes as American Airlines goes the other way, eliminating hot meals on most flights less than 1,000 miles starting Sept. 1. The change — which upset many frequent flyers — is part of American's merger with US Airways. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BITE INTO THIS WEEK'S LISTICLE

THE METRO LIST

Mike Benhaim
metronews.ca

1 Piece of Cake. Rumer Willis, daughter of Bruce and Demi, posted an instagram picture of the gun-shaped birthday cake mom got for her 26th. It read 'Happy birthday Rumer ... Bang Bang.' referencing her role in the Tarantino-inspired stage musical For the Record, where she sings Cher's Bang, Bang (My Baby Shot Me Down). Some condemned the image but I think the message would have been far more inappropriate on just a regular cake.

2 Out of bounds. Not only were the last two top NBA draftees both from Canada, but Anthony Bennett and Andrew Wiggins were both chosen by the Cavaliers, perennial bottom-dwellers since LeBron James took his "talents to South Beach." Now that James has returned, the Canucks are heading to a subpar Minnesota Timberwolves team in exchange for superstar Kevin Love. The only reason they're not angry is, well, they're Canadian.

3 Word up. After extensive research, Oxford Dictionary unveiled this year's freshman class of terms to be legitimized in the English language. Because once a slang phrase infiltrates popular culture, we've no choice but to embrace it. So you are now reading a "listicle" (list/article) containing "new" vocabulary such as: hot mess, YOLO, cray, side-boob, and the one everyone's using at the office, Amazeballs! Remember when reading a dictionary made you smarter?

4 No country for ol' Taylor. Taylor Swift surprised everyone by launching her new album, 1989, this week. Apparently, the revelation that the singer-songwriter, whose job is to make music, was for two years secretly making music, left fans stunned. The new single Shake it Off is not country but pure, unapologetic pop, and characteristically catchy. Swift has endured all the criticism and mockery (some of it from me) that comes with being artistically transparent, only to emerge as a woman who refuses to be defeated. So, I concede. I am now officially a "Swiftie."

5 Cold play. Earlier this year, I reserved comment on Gwyneth Paltrow's breakup from musician Chris Martin because, frankly, I didn't care. But I did enjoy how they circumvented the word "divorce" by calling it a "conscious un-coupling". So much easier for the kids. But now, just months later, Martin is reported to be seeing Hunger Games star Jennifer Lawrence. The two are believed to be consciously coupling like crazy. Gwyneth, I'm here for you. And I'm conscious.

6 Pour it on. This week's best trend was #IceBucketChallenge. What began as a campaign to raise awareness for Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS), a.k.a. Lou Gehrig's disease, became social media's cause du jour. Some denounced the challenge as gimmicky but it has enhanced public consciousness of a devastating illness and raised over $20 million at last count, so perhaps it's time everyone had an ice-cold awakening.

From baby crocs to giant snails, everyone gets a weigh-in at the London Zoo

Silverback gorillas, rare baby crocodiles and giant snails were just a handful of the animals weighed and measured at ZSL London Zoo's big weigh-in 2014.

Ellish the female giraffe is the zoo's heaviest animal, weighing in at just under a tonne.

Just right

"We can check that our animals are not underweight, that they're not overweight and we can just ensure the animals are in the best — very, very best — of health."

David Field, zoological director

David Field, zoological director for the London Zoo, said that they are trying to ensure the best welfare for the animals.

The data collected by the zoo is sent to a zoological information management system called ZIMS, where zoos across the world share such information, Field said.

As well as indicating an animal's overall well-being, regular weight checks and waist measurements can also help keepers detect pregnancies of endangered species.

Slippery squirrel no match for the power of Vaseline

A great man once said, "Nature finds a way." Granted, he was talking about theme-park dinosaurs resurrected by DNA magic, but there's no reason Jurassic Park rules can't apply to our own backyards. That adage brings us to this scrappy squirrel with a taste for ill-gained birdseed that a garden full of vegetables just won't satisfy, and a pole greased with Vaseline that isn't going to stop nature — except that it totally does. RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Daniel Radcliffe and Zoe Kazan star in The F Word. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

Called What If in the United States where The F Word title was seen as too salacious (in the movie the "F" stands for friend), this is the story of Wallace (Daniel Radcliffe), a loser in love who meets Chandry (Zoe Kazan), the girl of his dreams, at a party. She's charming, pretty, funny and has a live-in boyfriend. Like Harry and Sally before them, they must discover if men and women can just be friends.

The F Word.
Daniel Radcliffe and Zoe Kazan manage to create a sweet and relatable chemistry without getting too saccharine

Richard: Mark, enchanting, whimsical and sweet are words I could use to describe The F Word, and the film earns each and every one, but it is also more than that.

Director Michael Dowse doesn't allow the tone to get sugary and slip into saccharine mode.

He's aided by a smart and funny script by Elan Mastai, but it's Radcliffe and Kazan that drew me in.

The pair has chemistry to burn and their conversations have a ring of truth that don't feel contrived or rom-commy.

Mark: Richard. This is an incredibly sweet-hearted movie that will do nothing to alleviate the problems in the Middle East.

Nevertheless, the movie is about 25 per cent more realistic than most rom-coms and I was so grateful for that.

But I've never seen a movie where the characters were so polite to one another; no wonder they set it in Toronto.

RC: It's more realistic than most rom-coms, with some real romance and some actual laughs.

The once proud romantic comedy genre had been suffering form a bad case of the Katherine Heigls, but movies like this and 500 Days of Summer and Warm Bodies are persuasive attempts to reclaim the rom com from the Barrymore Method© and bring back the golden years when Harry could still meet Sally without all the annoying Heiglisms in between.

That it makes Toronto and Canada look sexy and romantic is just an added bonus.

MB: I was also grateful for the indie score and the way the characters looked a little mussed, with some visible pores and an occasional zit, even if they all sported impossibly cute and expensive eyewear.

Toronto does look sexy — although not dangerously sexy — but for a city that trumpets its multiculturalism, the cast and tone were lily-white. The lead was actually British!

Speaking of the lead, I liked Radcliffe in the role. You, Richard?

RC: I did. I thought he and Kazan made a cute couple.

There's more to Radcliffe than wizardry and battling "He-Who-Must-Not-Be-Named."

Breaking free of Harry Potter must have seemed daunting for the young actor, but he has proven in movies like this and Kill Your Darlings and The Woman in Black that he is versatile and won't be typecast.

I'm curious to see what he does next.

MB: I heard he was doing Vladimir in Waiting for Godot on Broadway, dressed as Osama Bin Laden.

Personally, I think he's too short for the role.

The Stay Puft Marshmallow Man lumbers across the big screen next week as Ghostbusters is re-released to celebrate its 30th anniversary. CONTRIBUTED

It's mind-bending to consider that it's been 30 years since the landmark supernatural comedy Ghostbusters was unleashed to theatres worldwide. Director Ivan Reitman's riotous big-budget blockbuster melded genre tropes of every cinematic persuasion to tell its tale of four grown men (co-writers Dan Akroyd and the late Harold Ramis, Bill Murray and Ernie Hudson, respectively) tapping and trapping spectral phenomena in the streets of New York, finding fame, fortune and eventually saving the planet. Critically adored and unabashedly crowd pleasing, Ghostbusters changed the landscape of 1980s pop-cinema, and in turn, irrevocably altered the way we watch mainstream movies.

Behold, as Metro lays out five ways in which the mighty Ghostbusters changed the world.

Big laughs, bigger FX

Ghostbusters was the first notable "special effects comedy", in which mind blowing, state-of-the-art visual FX (conceived and executed by the great Richard Edlund) vie for screen time with conventional, slapstick farce. Ghostbusters defined that formula. Later attempts in the decade to duplicate the recipe weren't nearly as successful. The Golden Child and Howard the Duck, we're looking at you ...

The mark of Murray

Of course, Bill Murray was already a star before Ghostbusters came to be, having appeared in Reitman's previous comedy hits Meatballs and Stripes, and the original run of Saturday Night Live. But Ghostbusters perfected the "Bill Murray Voodoo": a glib blend of deadpan, lazy lidded, caustic humour laced with good-natured smut. These qualities are alive in his Peter Venkman character (a role originally conceived for the late John Belushi) — traits that would cement Murray's status as one of Hollywood's most bankable comedy draws.

Have logo, will travel

Ghostbusters iconic "no ghost" logo is one of the most famous and internationally recognized in film history. Created by artist and producer Michael C. Gross, the logo was not only part of the opening credits (its visage served as the theatrical teaser poster art), but was also on the soundtrack album and, by the end of 1984, was blasted across millions of T-shirts all over the planet.

Video stole the cinema star

Ray Parker Jr.'s massively successful, Academy-award nominated theme song and its accompanying, star-studded, Reitman-directed video was in constant rotation on MTV even before Ghostbusters was released and was an essential tool in the film's branding. Every radio station on terra firma was spinning that damn song that year, everyone was singing it and that same formula — hit song and conceptual video — would be used for decades as a key component for studios looking to hard-sell their films.

Marshmallow apocalypse

A carry-over from Akroyd's original script (titled Ghostmashers), in which he and Belushi travelled through time killing creatures, Ghostbusters' climactic showdown featured our fearless quartet squaring off against a Godzilla-sized Stay Puft Marshmallow Man; a hulking 25-storey high hell-spawn dessert who, when decimated, erupts into torrents of hot s'more-ready goo. It's one of the daftest and most memorable moments in movie history and it could only work within the confines of Ghostbusters. Because of this, no other filmmaker has dared attempt to use a haunted, massive marshmallow as a villain. Yet ...

Are You Here. Mad Men creator tries some time in the director's chair

Mad Men creator Matthew Weiner was able to wrest only 33 days to shoot his long-gestating directorial debut, Are You Here, so it helped that he had a trusted team to lean on.

The nine-time Emmy Award winner ported over practically the entire crew from his beloved moody period piece, working with Mad Men's cinematographer, editor, casting team, production designer, composer and hair and makeup departments.

Getting the band back together helped turn "what could have been a scary experience" into an "adventure," said Weiner. But even with a similar team behind the camera, Weiner was hesitant to guess whether the exacting fans of his decorated TV drama would find something to love in his earnest debut film.

"It's hard for me to know," said Weiner during last September's Toronto International Film Festival. "Obviously I cherish the fact that I have a devoted audience on the show and that there is an expectation of anything from me — and the fans are quite protective and opinionated about the show.

Matthew Weiner
THE CANADIAN PRESS

"I do think that people who enjoy Mad Men for the fact that it's layered and for the fact that it doesn't judge the characters and that there's some depth to it and some honesty about how people behave — they will find something in the movie that's very similar. It stands up to multiple viewings. And I think it just doesn't have a lot of judgment. (The characters) are four very flawed people and they're doing the best that they can, and you kind of realize that by the end of the movie, which is tragedy and it's poignant and it's beautiful. And that's really what I'm shooting for on the show."

Still, the shared creative DNA between the two projects doesn't translate into many surface-level similarities. For one thing, Are You Here — opening in Canada both theatrically and on video-on-demand this Friday — is firmly contemporary, a buddy-dramedy centring on self-centred weatherman Steve Dallas (Owen Wilson) and his bipolar stoner best bud Ben Baker (Zach Galifianakis).

When Ben's father dies, the odd couple venture home to his family ranch to spar over the inheritance with Ben's pragmatic sister, played by Amy Poehler.

Ultimately, Weiner says this is a story about a character who needs to get off drugs (the perpetually faded Steve) and a character who needs to get on them (manic Ben).

Sin City Rap Sheet

It's been nearly a decade since Sin City brought pulp fiction to movie screens. With the highly anticipated A Dame to Kill For in theatres this weekend, it's time to remind the public what seedy scoundrels will be lurking in Basin City.

STEVE GOW
scene@metronews.ca

John Hartigan (Alias: Bruce Willis)

Distinguishing features

X-shaped scar on forehead, signature trench coat, suffered from angina.

Charges

An ex-cop, Hartigan was framed and imprisoned for the rape of Nancy Callahan in spite of the fact that he actually saved her.

Status

Deceased in 2005 (Sin City) from apparent suicide.

Marv (Alias: Mickey Rourke)

Distinguishing features

Square-jawed, muscle-bound behemoth; often wears overcoats (which he frequently takes from his victims). Unethical except for an ironic sense of chivalry towards women; suffers from a condition of acute memory loss.

Charges

Multiple cases of murder. After waking up on a highway surrounded by dead bodies, Marv is determined to find out how he got there. As Nancy Callahan's protector, he is convinced to help her track down dubious Senator Roark for his involvement in Hartigan's suicide.

Weapons of choice

Shotguns, fists and head-butts

Ava Lord (Alias: Eva Green a.k.a. The Dame to Kill For)

Distinguishing features

Piercing green eyes, red lips and dark hair; often smoking cigarettes and barely dressed.

Charges

Dwight McCarthy's ex-lover; she's the cold-blooded mastermind behind his murderous attempt on her billionaire husband whom she claimed was abusive.

Weapons of choice

Deception and sex

Nancy Callahan (Alias: Jessica Alba)

Distinguishing features

As an exotic dancer, she's often scantily dressed in leather; has dyed her hair black and now displays several self-inflicted scars on her face. Deemed unstable, she's often advised by apparitions of John Hartigan.

Charges

After being rescued when she was a child from an attempted rape by Senator Roark's son, Callahan now seeks revenge — enlisting Marv to assist her vengeance against the Senator as payback for Hartigan's death.

Weapons of choice

Crossbow, Marv

Dwight McCarthy (Alias: Josh Brolin)

Distinguishing features

Although he resembles Josh Brolin, his facial features are eventually reconstructed by the prostitution gang the Girls of Old Town to more closely resemble Clive Owen (as in 2005's Sin City).

Charges

A private investigator-turned-vigilante, McCarthy is wanted for murder after his ex-lover Ava Lord sets him up to kill her rich husband. He enlists Marv's help to storm the billionaire's mansion.

Weapons of choice

Proficient fighter, skilled marksman

Embracing feminism, flaws and all

The other "F" word. Women need to give themselves a break, says Bad Feminist author Roxane Gay

EMILY LAURENCE
Metro in New York City

Roxane Gay JAY GRABIEC

Few people can spark a heated debate quite like Roxane Gay. Can you like Robin Thicke and still be a feminist? Can you hate Girls and be one? Whenever there's a big moment in pop culture, Gay's 100,000 Tumblr followers and 24,800 Twitter followers are eager to hear her thoughts on what it means on a deeper level, if it means anything at all.

The writer just released her book, Bad Feminist, a collection of some of her best essays about recent pop culture. Because this much-misunderstood "F" word is still such a loaded term, we talked to Gay about setting some of the myths about feminism straight.

Myth 1: Feminists can't listen to rap or watch The Bachelor

For the record, Gay loves The Bachelor. "I embrace the label of bad feminist because I am human. I am messy. I am not trying to be an example," Gay says in Bad Feminist. One of the reasons Gay decided to release her book is to tell women to give themselves a break. "It's important to have high standards, but it's also important to recognize our humanity and that sometimes we're not going to get it right," she tells us. "We can be feminists and we can be imperfect in our feminism. I think what matters is intention."

Myth 2: There's nothing left for feminists to fight for

Gay says one of the reasons why she thinks many young women are hesitant to call themselves feminists is because they think we've reached a point where men and women are equal. "We're no longer thinking the struggle is real because we're no longer fighting for literacy or the right to vote," she explains. But she says that even though the fight is more subtle, it's still important. "We're fighting for equal pay. We're fighting for reproductive freedom. We're fighting for the rights of transgender women and queer women. The fights are different, but equally important."

Myth 3: Feminists are automatic role models

Gay may have a big following, but she insists that she is not a role model because everyone is human and bound to mess up. "People who are placed on pedestals are expected to pose, perfectly. They get knocked off when they f— it up. I regularly f— it up. Consider me already knocked off," she says in her book. Instead, she urges people to keep feminism simple. Believing that men and women are equals and should be treated as such, but also spending Saturday night grinding with guys to degrading music is imperfect feminism, and that's perfectly OK.

Vested interest

More of our conversation with author Roxane Gay

It's interesting that we're still at a point where feminism has to be defined every time it's talked about.

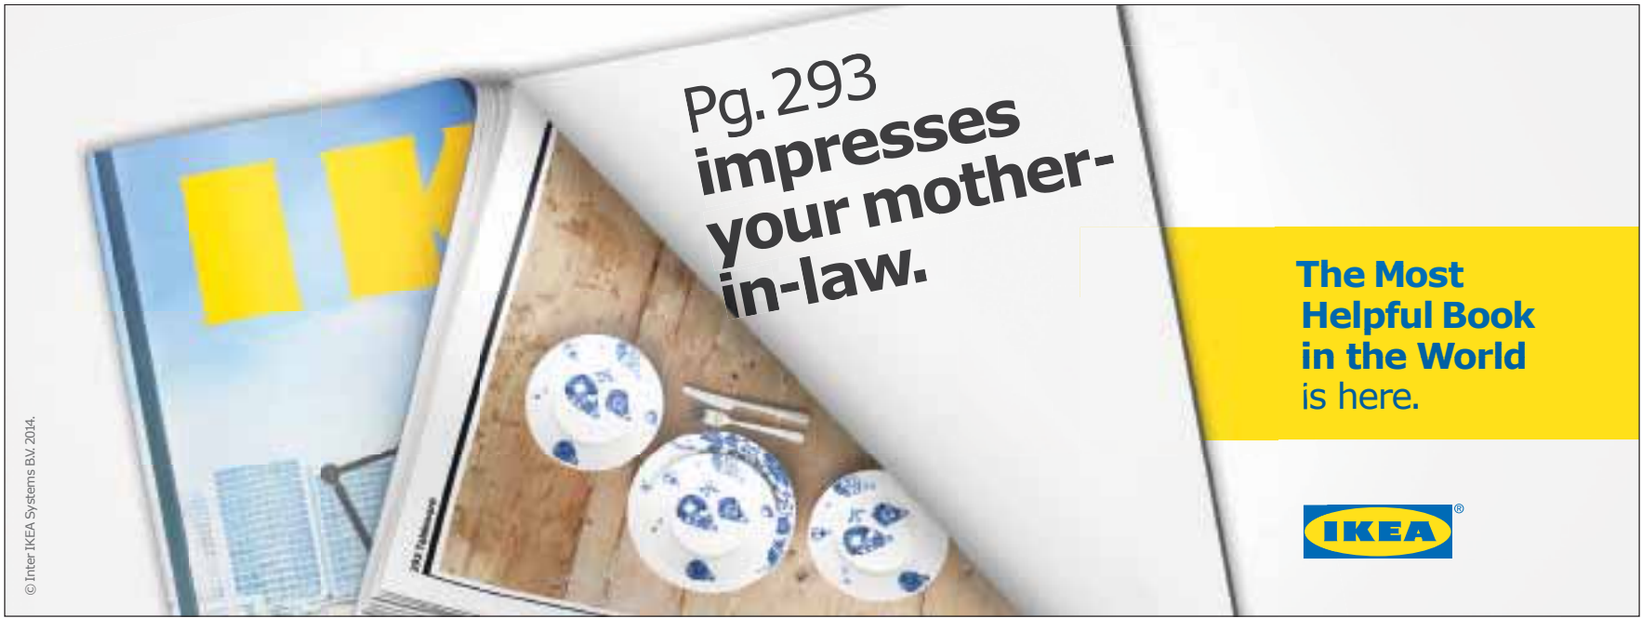
Yes. It's shocking that we are still trying to explain what feminism is, how it functions and how it works in the service of women. It's also a shame that people are resistant to what feminism actually is and they are still holding on to really antiquated notions as to what feminism is. … It's hard for people to find common ground on any issue, so it's not surprising that feminism is another issue where we struggle with that.

Who are your favourite celebrity "bad feminists"?

I really love Bette Midler. I think she does some really wonderful things and she's very much invested in the quality of women. Susan Sarandon, who I don't even think identifies as a feminist, I think is just badass at how she moves through the world. Michelle Obama is a great feminist. If I had to pick a favourite, it would be her, because she's so clear on what she wants to do and why. She's very full of good intention and follow through.

Do you think it's OK for someone to not want to be a feminist?

I definitely struggle with women who say they are not a feminist and don't need feminism because I think they don't realize what feminism has made possible in their lives. But we all get to choose how we identify ourselves. They have a right and I'm going to fight for them, anyway. Whether or not you're a feminist, I'm very much invested in the equality of all women.



Orange is still black, but is it comedy?

Emmy out of water.
Loose rules have allowed dramatic shows to switch categories this year

Host Seth Meyers plans to have fun with the fact that cable and online shows are outperforming networks. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If it walks like a drama and talks like a drama but calls itself a comedy, that's just fine with the Emmy Awards.

But the audience for Monday's ceremony (8 p.m. EDT, NBC) may be confused when, say, the Netflix women's prison saga Orange Is the New Black pops up as a nominee for best comedy series.

"The Emmys are being loosey-goosey about category placement," said Tom O'Neil, author of The Emmys reference book and organizer of the Gold Derby website.

The tactic isn't frivolous. Shows are angling to better their odds of winning TV's top honour, which can bring prestige and more viewers.

Emmy bragging rights are another matter. With the explosion of cable and online content, traditional broadcast networks are finding themselves shut out or lightly represented in major categories, including best drama and comedy series.

NBC late-night host and ceremony host Seth Meyers is ready to take advantage of broadcasting's plight.

"That's a thing that I think everyone in the audience will be aware of, and being someone who's on a broadcast network makes it a lot more fun to make jokes about than if I were someone on the cable side lording it over everyone," he said, chuckling.

The decision by Orange to compete as a comedy despite its bleak setting puts pressure on four-time best-comedy winner Modern Family. The ABC series — vying for a record-tying fifth win (with Frasier) against a buzzy Internet newcomer — may look a lot less modern to Emmy voters.

Another apparent fish-out-of-water is Showtime's dysfunctional family series Shameless. After coming up empty as a drama contender, it jumped to the comedy pool.

Other comedy contenders are The Big Bang Theory, Louie, Silicon Valley and Veep.

Shifting categories isn't unprecedented. In the 1950s, Father Knows Best moved between comedy and drama and captured trophies in each, and Moonlighting did the same in the 1980s, O'Neil said. The academy tightened the rules in 2009, but obviously didn't make them ironclad.

HBO's True Detective is unmistakably a drama, but one with miniseries trappings: a close-ended story and two movie-star leads (Matthew McConaughey, Woody Harrelson) committed to just one season.

Because of a TV academy rule involving the show's Writers Guild of America credit, however, it was eligible to compete as a series.

If True Detective nabs the top drama trophy, it would deny Breaking Bad a farewell hug for its final season. A McConaughey victory as best drama actor also would keep Bryan Cranston from tying Dennis Franz's record of four wins in the category.

Others competing for the best drama trophy are Game of Thrones, Downton Abbey, House of Cards and Mad Men.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Justin Bieber GETTY IMAGES

Party at Bieber's house! No, not that one. The other one

OK, yes, Justin Bieber did in fact rent a sprawling, 16,000-square-foot Hollywood Hills mansion with its own nightclub built into it — and goes for $29,000 a month — but he's not actually going to live there. Instead, Bieber "is only using the Hollywood Hills rental to throw parties," according to Radar Online. "After Justin's house was raided earlier this year, he vowed never to be caught in a similar situation and doesn't want random people in his home. So Justin decided to rent a house just so he could throw parties. He might end up sleeping there from time to time, but still has the Beverly Hills condo and will use that as his base." Well, as long as he has options.

Surprise! Looks like not everything is coming up Rosie on The View

Rosie O'Donnell hasn't even started back on The View yet and already tensions are flaring. The former co-host is reportedly clashing with Whoopi Goldberg over seating assignments, as Goldberg has been in the prime moderator seat since taking over for O'Donnell, but now "Rosie wants it back from Whoopi," according to the National Enquirer. "It doesn't matter that Whoopi has sat there for the last several years. Rosie doesn't want to be sitting anywhere but back in her old spot. In Rosie's mind, this is once again her show. Whoopi won't be giving it up, and Rosie even suggested they trade seats every other week. It's all a power trip for Rosie, which is resulting in tension on the staff." Fun times!

That thing about Zac and Michelle's summer fling — it's so over

NED EHRBAR
Metro in Hollywood

Ah, the summer romance. So intense, so fleeting. With Labour Day fast approaching, it should come as little surprise that the incredibly surprising romance between Zac Efron and Michelle Rodriguez has quickly and quietly come to a "very mutual" end after two months, according to Us Weekly. "Michelle is going to do her own thing. Zac knew about her when he got with her. He's very into her, though, and perhaps more than she's into him," a source says. Now this celebrity gossip curio can fade into memory like so many bizarre fever dreams, until one day you'll mention it at an intimate Tupperware party and everyone will think you made it up. Because Zac Efron and Michelle Rodriguez dating? That hardly makes any sense at all. Surely, you must be joking.

Pharrell Williams and his outsized hat. AFP

Hat gets even more than its Pharrell share of fame

The hat that sparked a social media sensation when worn by Pharrell Williams to the Grammy Awards earlier this year is now set to go on display at the Newseum in Washington, D.C. The "Buffalo Hat" proved to be such a talking point the singer later sold it on eBay, where it was snapped up by fast food chain Arby. The restaurant brand drew attention to the similarities between the outsized headgear and its own logo at the time, tweeting "Hey @Pharrell, can we have our hat back?" After being retweeted more than 80,000 times, Pharrell's good-natured Twitter reply — "Y'all tryna start a roast beef?" — helped the hat go viral. Now the newsworthy accessory has been loaned to the Newseum, where it will go on show this week for a limited time. AFP

Paps snap Snipes being served over debt at Expendables 3 bash

Well, this is certainly awkward. While on his way to the premiere after-party for Expendables 3 — his first major film since serving time for tax evasion — Wesley Snipes was served with a notice to appear for a debtor's examination, according to TMZ. A process server caught Snipes off-guard as he headed in to the party, and the whole exchange was caught by paparazzi. Snipes is being sued by PR firm Sitrick & Company for unpaid fees from work the group did while he was in trouble with the IRS. Snipes was unavailable for comment.

Popsicles. Corn dogs. Skewers. Nothing says summertime fun quite like food served on a stick. Agree with me? Then you'll love this recipe.

Marinade
1. In blender, purée all ingredients. Pour the marinade into a bowl. Add the meat and toss to coat. Cover and let marinate in the refrigerator for 3 to 6 hours.

Salsa
1. In a bowl, combine all the ingredients. Season with salt and pepper. Cover and refrigerate for 1 hour.

Onion Papillote
1. Preheat the grill, setting the burners to high.

2. Meanwhile, in a bowl, combine the sugar and salt. Add the onions and toss to coat. Place the onions in the centre of a sheet of lightly oiled aluminum foil. Close the foil, sealing well. Bake for about 35 minutes or until the onions are tender and lightly browned. Set aside.

Guacamole
1. In a bowl, mash avocado with a fork. Add the remaining ingredients and stir to blend. Season with salt and pepper.

This recipe serves eight. COURTESY RICARDOCUISINE.COM

Ingredients

Marinade
- 3 tbsp (45 ml) pineapple juice
- 1/2 jalapeno, seeded and chopped
- 1 clove garlic
- 1/2 lime, the juice and grated zest
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) vegetable oil
- 2 tsp (10 ml) chili powder
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) salt
- Tabasco sauce, to taste
- 1 1/2 lb (675 g) beef, cut into 32 cubes

Salsa
- 3 plum tomatoes, diced
- 1/2 jalapeno, seeded and chopped
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) red onion chopped
- 1 lime, the juice only
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) cilantro, chopped

Onion Papillote
- 2 tsp (10 ml) sugar
- 1 tsp (5 ml) salt
- 4 onions, cut into thick slices
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) olive oil

Guacamole
- 2 avocados, peeled and seeded
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) red onion, finely chopped
- 1 jalapeno pepper, seeded and finely chopped
- 1/2 lime, the juice only
- 8 wooden skewers, soaked in water for 30 minutes
- 1 yellow bell pepper, cut into 24 cubes
- 8 7-inch (18 cm) tortillas
- Salt and pepper
- Sour cream

Skewers
1. Drain meat. Thread 4 cubes of meat on each skewer, alternating with 3 pieces of bell pepper. Season with salt, pepper.

2. Cook the beef skewers for about 1 minute on all four sides, for medium-rare.

3. Warm the tortillas on the grill. Place the skewers on hot tortillas and remove the sticks. Place the toppings in the centre of the table and let your guests garnish their fajitas to their taste. FOLLOW RICARDO ON SOCIAL MEDIA AND ON RICARDOCUISINE.COM OR SUBSCRIBE TO HIS MAGAZINE'S UP-COMING ENGLISH EDITION LAUNCHING THIS SEPTEMBER!

Grapes are the Brad Pitts of the wine world. Sexy and memorable, it's their names that get top billing on your favourite bottles.

Vines are relegated to the supporting cast. Though they do all the heavy lifting, the spotlight is always on their fruit.

With age comes respect and really old vines are starting to get attention. Mature vines produce fewer grapes. With less berries to focus on, the juice of what gets picked from elderly vines is way more concentrated.

Keeping geriatric crops in the ground is not very cost-effective, so many winemakers systematically switch them out for younger plantings to keep production stable. Spain, Australia and California have some senior root stock and have embraced the depth, complexity and nuance of their output.

California's zinfandel flourishes in its old age, and the 2012 Gnarly Head Old Vine Zinfandel ($16.99 - $19.99) is a lush, ultra ripe red with a creamy undercurrent of cherry and chocolate that loves grilled meats. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. Bombers' coach, QB not taking Alouettes lightly

CFL. Winnipeg expects tough running attack from struggling foe

The Montreal Alouettes may be on a five-game losing skid, but quarterback Drew Willy isn't viewing Friday's game as a slam dunk for the Blue Bombers.

Winnipeg (5-3) has had troubles of its own lately, losing two straight heading into the home game against Montreal (1-6). And as much as the Alouettes are struggling, some of their losses have been in close games against good teams.

"We saw even last week, they played Saskatchewan very tough, to the wire there," Willy said Thursday of Montreal's 16-11 loss to the Roughriders.

"They're not far off from winning games, so we need to take them very seriously and that's what we have been doing."

The Alouettes stayed in Regina and arrived in Winnipeg Thursday afternoon.

"We very much intend to hopefully pick up where we left off," Montreal head coach Tom Higgins said of the loss to the Riders.

"We thought that was one of our better outings of the football season."

Toronto leads the CFL East Division with a 3-5 record, followed by Hamilton, Ottawa and Montreal in a logjam at 1-6.

Higgins pointed to those pitiful standings — Montreal has never been 1-6 since rejoining the league in 1996 — as a saving grace.

"We'd like to get on a roll," he said. "We're very lucky that we're in the East because no matter how it looks, we're still sitting in second, as ugly as it might be.

"You get two wins, then all of a sudden you're feeling pretty good about yourself."

Former Bombers pivot Alex Brink is making his second straight start for the Als in place of injured Troy Smith.

Brink, who played for Winnipeg from 2010-12 and went 3-4, is excited to go up against the Bombers, but noted there aren't many familiar faces left.

Winnipeg head coach Mike O'Shea said his team won't take Brink lightly.

Quoted

"If you look at what our defence has given up in the last couple games, then obviously part of their game plan will be to run the ball on us."

Blue Bombers head coach Mike O'Shea, who expects Montreal to establish the ground attack during Friday's game

"With a young quarterback who's maybe not been handed the job, he's going to try and make plays, not only with his arm, but with his feet," O'Shea said.

"So you have to look at the fact that he's probably going to try to pull the ball and run if he has to."

O'Shea expects running will be in Montreal's game package.

"If you look at what our defence has given up in the last couple games, then obviously part of their game plan will be to run the ball on us," he said. "That's not rocket science."

Week 9 pick

Alouettes at Blue Bombers, Friday, 7:30 p.m. (TSN)

Life is back to normal for Drew Willy and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The Bombers had to play two games within a five-day span last week, with predictable results. Winnipeg dropped a 23-17 home decision to the Saskatchewan Roughriders on Aug. 7, then suffered a 38-21 setback in Toronto on Aug. 12.

The two losses dropped Winnipeg (5-3) into a tie for third with Saskatchewan (5-2) and B.C. (5-3) in the West Division. Edmonton and Calgary are first with identical 6-1 records.

Not only should the Bombers be well-rested, but they host the Montreal Alouettes (1-6) on Friday night. West teams have dominated their Eastern brethren, amassing an amazing 20-3 head-to-head record.

Now, it was close last week. Toronto beat Winnipeg while Edmonton, Calgary and Saskatchewan went to the wire before emerging victorious over their Eastern rivals.

Barclays. Van Pelt leads as McIlroy takes day off

Bo Van Pelt had just the round he needed to start the FedEx Cup playoffs. Rory McIlroy could afford an off day, and he finally had one.

With no guarantee of playing beyond this week, Van Pelt combined a great start and a great finish for a 6-under 65 to take a one-shot lead Thursday at The Barclays. He is No. 104 in the FedEx Cup. Only the top 100 advance to the next tournament.

McIlroy is the top seed after his amazing summer of winning two majors and a World Golf Championship.

A champion's rest

"It's, I think, just not putting the time in that I probably should have over the past week."

Rory McIlroy about his poor performance at Barclays just a week after becoming the third-youngest player to win four majors.

Balotelli said to replace Suarez

Liverpool could be about to replace one controversial striker with another.

Italy international Mario Balotelli has been lined up by the Premier League club as a potential replacement for Luis Suarez, who left Anfield to join Barcelona for $130 million.

So Yeon Ryu's record first round sets pace in London

CP Women's Open. South Korean wrapped first round with a 9-under 63 Thursday

On the eve of the Canadian Pacific Women's Open, So Yeon Ryu, Na Yeon Choi and Inbee Park got together for dinner with some fellow South Korean golfers. While Park picked up the tab after winning the LPGA Championship, all three benefited from the fellowship.

Ryu set a new course record with a 9-under 63, Choi was one shot behind her and Park three off the lead after the first round of the $2.25-million US tournament at the London (Ont.) Hunt and Country Club.

Ryu's 63 was one shy of the tournament record, and her 9-under-par tied the best mark, set in 2009 by Song-Hee Kim. The 24-year-old hit nine birdies and played a bogey-free round.

Choi chipped in three times during her morning round, and her score of 8 under looked like it would stand up until Ryu got hot on the back nine. Choi knew she chipped in twice from inside of 10 yards and once from a bunker 25 yards away but had to check her scorecard to figure out how many birdies she hit.

"I felt good about my game, but I didn't really realize I had five birdies in a row," Choi said. "I didn't really think about I want to birdie every hole."

Choi credits Canadian manager Greg Morrison for her love of and strong play in Canada. Her career-best round of 62 came in last year's Manulife Financial LPGA at the Grey Silo Golf Course in Waterloo, Ont.

When Ryu saw Choi's score before she teed off, she thought 3 under would be a realistic goal for her. "But I shot 9 under, so I'm more happy," Ryu said with a smile. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Serena starts title defence against teen sensation

Two-time defending champion Serena Williams will face American teen Taylor Townsend in the first round of the U.S. Open.

The 18-year-old Townsend is a former top-ranked junior player who reached the third round at the French Open this year. She got into her first U.S. Open main draw with a wild card.

Seventh seed Eugenie Bouchard of Westmount, Que., opens against Olga Govortsova of Belarus. Bouchard has advanced to at least the semifinals of the other three Grand Slams this year but has struggled so far on hardcourt.

On the men's side, fifth seed Milos Raonic of Thornhill, Ont., will face a qualifier in the first round, while Vancouver's Vasek Pospisil faces Italy's Simone Bolelli and Frank Dancevic of Niagara Falls, Ont., meets No. 32 Joao Sousa of Portugal. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Jiggy is up

Goalie Giguere calls it a career

Goaltender Jean-Sebastien Giguere is retiring after 16 NHL seasons in which he won 262 games, a Conn Smythe Trophy and a Stanley Cup championship.

Giguere served as Semyon Varlamov's backup last season in Hall of Fame goaltender Patrick Roy's first season behind the bench. The team made it back to the post-season for the first time since 2010.

The 37-year-old Giguere is best known for his time with the Anaheim Ducks. He led the team to two appearances in the Stanley Cup final, capturing the Conn Smythe Trophy in defeat in 2003 and hoisting the Cup in 2007.

Rays need just one hit to spoil Price's return

MLB. Former Cy Young winner loses 1-0 decision against his old team in Tampa Bay

The Tampa Bay Rays overcame a masterful performance by David Price.

Price allowed only a first-inning RBI triple to Brandon Guyer in his first start against his former team, but Alex Cobb and the Tampa Bay Rays beat the Detroit Tigers 1-0 Thursday to avoid a three-game sweep.

"It's weird," Guyer said. "I've never seen a win like that."

Ben Zobrist reached on a throwing error by shortstop Eugenio Suarez and scored on Guyer's hit. Price then retired his final 23 batters, nine on strikeouts, to finish an eight-inning complete game.

Cobb (9-6) scattered two hits, walked two and struck out six over seven innings, improving to 7-0 in his last 10 starts. After Brad Boxberger worked out of an eighth-inning jam, Jake McGee got three outs for his 14th save, completing a four-hitter.

Price, traded to the Tigers as part of a three-team deal on July 31, got a standing ovation while taking his warm-up throws before the bottom of the first.

"That's probably as good as I've pitched in a game that went my way," Price said. "It's the least amount of hits I've ever given up."

1915

The Rays are the first team since the 1915 St. Louis Terriers of the Federal League to win and lose a one-hit game during the same season. Tampa Bay allowed one hit in a 3-2 loss to Oakland on May 21.

Tigers starting pitcher David Price allowed just one hit against his former team but still lost 1-0. BRIAN BLANCO/GETTY IMAGES

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Do what others expect of you today, even if it means you have to put your own plans on hold. Make sure loved ones get all the encouragement they need. It's inspiring to get praise from someone as go-ahead as you.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
An unpleasant issue will have to be dealt with today. Of course, if you had sorted it out when the situation first arose several months ago you would not be in this position now.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
A money matter you thought has been resolved will be up in the air again over the next few days. If you move fast, you can be the one who benefits most.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You know there are no shortcuts to success but with Mars, planet of action, moving in your favour now you have what it takes to reach the top. Make an extra special effort over the next few days. It will be worth it.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
What made no sense yesterday will make perfect sense today, simply because your way of looking at it has widened to encompass new possibilities. There is a lesson to be learned: Never think you know it all.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
You can't protect those you love from the consequences of their actions. Today you'll be convinced that, as far as one individual is concerned, you've got to let them do their thing.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Today's events will turn the views you have about someone on their head. The good news is you will be able to forge a new understanding, maybe even a long-term alliance, which before simply was not possible.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
No one has the right to tell you what to believe. If they try, you must come down on them. Having said that, you may find something you used to believe no longer seems certain.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Nothing happens truly by chance and if you keep that in mind today you may find yourself in a position where you are able to gain an advantage over your rivals.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Something will happen over the next few days that forces you to take centre stage, where everyone can see you. You may not want to be a star but the planets are making it happen. Why not enjoy it?

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Whatever you think is wrong with your life it is not nearly as bad as you fear, so stop worrying and start looking for ways you can bring the smile back to your face. Try helping others – you're especially good at that.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You have the power to turn negative situations to your advantage. You will achieve more if you partner up with like-minded people.

You deserve credit from someone who's credible.
